(C.N.S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW DELHI, May 6.—British forces in western Burma under the command of General Harold R. L. G. Alexander have thwarted a Japanese attempt to trap them through a pincer movement, it was announced in a communiqué of the Burma command today. Gen. Alexander's troops are intact and are taking every opportunity to counter-attack the invaders, it was said.

Destroy Oil Fields

It was admitted that Imperial and Chinese defenders in Burma had accelerated their withdrawal but not before completing destruction of the rich oil fields.

In Chungking it was announced that the oil fields could not be put back in use for at least two years, thus depriving the Japanese of one of the principal sources of fuel in this section of Asia.

The Chungking statement disclosed also that the American volunteer group pilots had destroyed at least 300 enemy planes in the Burma campaign.

Rainy Season Begins

British military headquarters here said the withdrawal of Imperial and Chinese forces to the north had left 100,000 Japanese in the central Burma "disease strip," where the rainy season, already begun, leaves a scourge of malaria and black water fever to which the Japanese are particularly susceptible.

In the east, where the Japanese who drove northward along the Burma road to the border of China's Yunnan Province, the Chinese were

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

HAPPY HOMES BOON TO PEOPLE. TODAY talk a great deal about the child's fears during a blackout and anxieties over possible air raids. There are some unhappy experiences, especially among children whose parents do not master their own emotions.

But these unhappy experiences of growing children hardly can be compared in frequency and intensity of the worries, fears and anxieties children and adolescents suffer because of strained relations, open conflicts, even divorce between their parents.

Even the infant of a few months can sense when there are strained relations between parents, while to the opposite degree he profits in feelings of security when love and companionship exist between his father and mother.

School children five to twelve naturally sense such relationships still more keenly and the hearts of adolescent youths respond in innumerable ways to the favorable or unfavorable relations between their parents.

Recently I have received some very touching letters from high school girls about parents openly unfaithful to each other, or about the agonies these youth have gone through in connection with matters leading up to divorce proceedings, the actual court scenes or remarriage of one or both parents afterwards. Apparently it is this wife-trading angle of divorce which troubles youths most about their "erring" parents.

Children's Unhappiness Revealed

Some of these young correspondents reveal how their hearts have been torn while feeling affection for both parents. Some tell of how one parent has tried to embitter them against the other parent.

It has always seemed to me that a divorced parent might best prove his true love for a child by helping the child forget him or her when this child is assigned to the other parent; and that the parent to whom the child is assigned should never attempt to instill hatred in this child for the other parent.

Anyways, these parents who will consider the sufferings of the child over strained relations or divorce will have good reasons to try harder to strive to stick together.

A few divorces might be avoided if the husband facing divorce proceedings were to enter the armed forces (volunteer). In doing so he might repay a double debt of patroism.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My twelve-year-old daughter keeps talking at home about horrors relating to the war. What should I do?

A. Avoid dwelling on war talk and seldom have the radio on for those programs. Turn the family conversation to cheerful, harmless subjects. Try to widen her interest in creative and constructive play. Let the adults of your family strive for more calm and cheerfulness. Protect this child from unduly nervous strain and fatigue and hold her rigidly to regular hours of sleep and rest.

Q. Do you have any special bulletins on lying and stealing?

A. Yes; to be had without cost to you by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Too Many Doing Same Job In Capital Agencies Have Been Created Too Fast Legislative Investigation Is Result

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 6—Wartime Washington falls all over itself in every direction. There's no denying that.

About 10,000 different emergency details require attending to and no doubt it would be desirable to have a separate agency specializing on each naturally-related bunch of them.

The trouble is that the agencies are created so fast that they themselves don't know which is which.

When some problem needs to be solved, eight or ten of these groups immediately are on hand to solve it, but, pretty confusingly, they almost invariably do it in eight or ten conflicting, contradictory ways. Put together and averaged, they don't make sense.

The national income last year was about ninety billion dollars. So all the coins minted in United States history wouldn't pay salaries and wages and dividends for much more than three weeks. Divided among America's 130,000,000 people, all that minted gold and silver would give each man, woman and child a scant Fifty Dollars! Yet we think of money itself as the essence of wealth—when all the money in America, past and present, is an insignificant fraction of the real national wealth of farms, schools, clothing, homes, factories, forests, utilities, automobiles—things people use and eat and wear and enjoy.

Yet without this thing called money everyday life would become hopelessly snarled and chaotic—the simplest transaction at the corner grocery would become a baffling problem; that other mysterious thing called "credit" would have no measuring stick. Nothing is more intrinsically useless than the government's billions in buried gold.

Yet that gold in some way affects the validity of every man's pay check. The late Arthur Brisbane was no violet of modesty, but he admitted that he was unable to understand money, and he said he thought it a mystery to everyone else. Very probably he was altogether right.

Administrative Jam

Congress recently took notice of the seriousness of the administrative jam, and decided first to investigate, then to correct it.

Some agencies it was argued ought to be abolished; others ought to be consolidated; all of them ought to be straightened out.

Thereupon a legislative investigation was decreed. It's in progress today. Three separate committees of lawmakers are conducting it. They overlap just as much as any three executive agencies do.

Why one single committee wouldn't be enough nobody explains.

It takes two congressional committees to investigate a certain lone incident—the disastrous fire aboard the steamship Normandie.

Just one committee, for a fact, has been wrestling with the issue of legislation to put a ceiling on industrial profits and wages, and that committee has been split 50-50 right along.

So congress can't very well contend that it's much more cohesive than the executive bureaus are.

In the meantime the government comes out with an appeal to the country. "Don't hoard." Civilian hoarding of life's necessities will hamper our military effort and be a bad thing for the hoarders themselves, later on."

Simultaneously Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones broadcasts to consumers the advice in effect. "For the love of mud, begin right now, this spring, to hoard coal for next winter's use." There's likely to be then, he warns, a shortage of fuel and of railroad cars to carry it, anyway.

It takes smart propaganda to win, President. And you alone can end the mess that handicaps us.

We'd better hit hard and fast with what we've got. If Japs and Germans unite in the Middle East, our job doubles.

After ringing the bell and then knocking loudly several times he gave it up, and as he was leaving spoke to the boy. "I thought you were a bad boy," he said.

Americans were not prepared for war, but oh boy, how they can act like it.

Kindergarten: A kind of school where little kids are sent to give their poor mothers a rest.

At last they've found a way to save a million man-hours. No more cellophane wrappers.

Just what did we gain by "ap-pealing" France that offset the enormous help we gave Germany?

Automobile wrecking firms in Canada have been ordered to dismantle all cars on hand to sell the resulting scrap, the Department of Commerce says.

Canada is not furnishing about 70 per cent of the newspaper consumed in the United States, according to the Department of Commerce.

Today is the time for us as patriotic citizens to stock our bins.

It may be sound economics, too, but that isn't the ground that Jesse puts it on. He's figuring on up-to-date transportation prospects six months hence.

How reconcile these divergent angles? Answering that query, I hear no echo.

Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defense is another anti-hoarding. Folks tend, says, to lay in an over-supply of first-aid stuff in anticipation of an raid and what not. It would be terrible, he remarks, if we were to be carried to such extremes that our scrapers in the field were to run shy on bandages and miscellaneous equipment to patch them up.

Replying First Aid Director Harold F. Emler of the Red Cross informs us that his outfit has noted no such inclination on civilianism's part.

Authorities in the ranks of the higher-ups do disagree.

The puzzle is to determine what's who, who's and which while the controversy's going on.

Instead, Emler dunged at the hold-up man, throwing him to the floor and held him there.

His wife called the cops and when they went into his pocket to get the gun, they found that it was only a liver sausage, which he had taken from the counter.

Lookout Class Meets With Mrs. R. Stewart

Mrs. Robert Stewart of North Liberty street entertained the Lookout Class of the Mahoning Methodist church at her home on Tuesday evening.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Ann Johnson.

Mrs. J. A. Waddell gave the story of Esther.

The evening was spent knitting and sewing for the Red Cross society.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Waddell and Mrs. Jesse Gherkin.

The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in June.

SUGAR STAMPS COMING IN

At the ward grocery stores Tuesday sugar rationing cards had been brought in by customers. A grocer had a sheet upon which there were a number of "L" stamps affixed in some of the hundred squares.

The stamp designated for a certain period cannot be used for another period, thus no stamp can be used in any period after May 16. After the grocer has his sheet of a hundred squares filled with sugar ration stamps, he turns it in to the wholesaler, who furnishes him with another hundred pounds of sugar for rationing distribution.

BRIDGE ALMOST COMPLETED

City employees have completed the approximate 30 or 40 feet street approach to the west end of the Cherry street bridge. It was necessary at this point upward for about a foot to the level of the bridge floor. The painting and sealing is almost completed and Commissioner Charles Bollinger states he expects the bridge to be opened for traffic within a few days.

FIVE OHIO STUDENTS KILLED IN CRASH

NEWARK, O., May 6.—Five high school youths out pleasure riding yesterday were killed instantly when an eastbound B & O special smashed their car at a crossing. The dead are Harry Sullivan, Kenneth Stockdale, Fred Ehlerman, Jim Bush and Barbara Deutsch.

The young people were going nowhere in particular and had their car radio turned on full blast drowning out the noise of the approaching train. Their car was thrown 100 feet and the bodies of the victims were scattered 50 to 75 feet apart. Strangely enough the car radio still played when would-be rescuers arrived.

Where petroleum hydraulic oil is used to control U. S. fighting planes in flight and operate sensitively balanced mechanisms, Paratone, a revolutionary Esso product, is added to the oil to assure instant response regardless of sudden changes from extreme heat to extreme cold.

All American naval craft—and the men who run them—go to battle with a priceless advantage. In winter as in summer, oils to which Paratone is added work just right to kick off planes from catapults—supply the even pressure needed to turn huge turrets and operate the firing controls of big guns.

Artillery used by the U. S. Army which requires light oil to cushion the shock of discharge, has Paratone-treated oil in the recoil cylinders to safeguard costly gun parts. Paratone in the oil keeps the gun fully effective at all operating temperatures.

Paratone-treated oils swing the hydraulically operated turrets and guns to meet and dislodge the enemy. With tanks fighting in patchy deserts or over icy wastes, Paratone-treated oils keep them operating and give U. S. forces a fighting edge. Paratone is the only product of its kind. Esso made it available to other refiners in the United States in 1935, six months after Esso had begun to use it.

Congress Reluctant To Lower Draft Ages

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 6.—Congressional reluctance to lowering of the draft ages to bring youths of 18 and 19 into the army was disclosed by a canvass today.

Sentiment of members of congressional military affairs committees appears to be that the present draft ages for military service of 20 to 44 will be retained unless army authorities insist that a change is necessary in conduct of the war.

Representatives of the war department and selective service headquarters are understood to have been informed that congress is opposed to consideration of legislation at this time.

Counter-proposals for pre-military training were said to have been advanced. Under this plan working youths and those in college would be given military check-ups and preliminary training in military tactics.

Sen. K. Sheridan Downey (D., Cal.) who led a successful fight to prevent draft ages from being lowered to include youths of 19, declared that his attitude is unchanged.

"I do not want to extend the draft down below present age levels until I feel it is absolutely necessary," he said.

Sen. Kilgore (D.) W. Va., a member of the military affairs committee, said that his impression is that congress would oppose lowering age limits at this time.

Must Solve Shipping Problem

"There is no use of building up an army of 7,000,000 men and have it marking time," he added. "We must solve the shipping problem first. I would favor giving pre-military training to groups, and save the burden to the taxpayers of induction into the army before they are needed."

More Women Serving On Juries These Days

"Gentlemen of the jury." That was the first phrase budding lawyers used to learn. They practiced it before their mirrors and perhaps like Demosthenes did it out on the beach, although perhaps without the mouthful of pebbles Demosthenes is said to have used to improve his articulation.

Then came the great upheaval. Women were given the ballot and soon they were serving on juries. Then the opening line of defense attorneys became "Ladies and gentlemen of the jury".

Now if the rising number of excused jurors increases it might be that lawyers will go to the jury with the line "Ladies of the jury." Somebody wrote a play by that name and it was good but new lawyers thought it would ever come to that.

Tires, Tubes, And New Cars Allowed By Rationing Board

Some increase in the number of new cars disposed of in the county in the final period of April is seen in the statement of the commodity rationing board today. The following statement shows the number of tires, tubes and cars sold and the persons getting them.

City Board No. 1— Clyde D. Badger, sheriff; L. W. McConnell; Peter J. Camuso; Rev. E. T. Wyler; New Cast. Tom C. Hawkins, New Castle, Pa.

City Board No. 2— T. F. Murphy, Alfredo Graziani; Superior Baking Co.; Rev. Paul M. McGaffie; W. M. Tribby; Raymond Alfred Phillips; Arthur Lundy, Bailey's Service Sta-

In the past six months in Lawrence county courts the number of ladies on juries has increased and there is a good explanation for it. Many of the men have valid excuses. They are working in defense plants and the court has wisely excused them from service on the jury.

In the past term of criminal court there was one jury with eight women and four men on it. In the June term the ratio of the distaff side may be increased.

All of which means that the lawyers are going to have to slick up a bit, polish their English and address their remarks to juries that if not all feminine may be mostly so.

And after all what's wrong with an all women jury? The little woman at home has been making decisions for the family for a long time, why not let her get three dollars a day for it up in the court house?

Thousands Of Eggs Are Being Gathered At Jordan Game Farm

Eleven men, under the supervision of Superintendent C. R. Brenneman, are working ten hours a day on the beautiful green acres of the Jordan State Game Farm during its busiest time of the year—the laying and incubating period.

Some 1,200 ringneck pheasant began laying on April 6, and eggs are being gathered at the rate of 1,500 a day. So far Mr. Brenneman estimates that approximately 20,000 eggs have been gathered. He expects to have 50,000 when the season ends on June 22.

During the winter the Jordan Farm acquired a new incubator and hatchery which has a capacity of 20,000 chicks. It is receiving its first test and latest reports say that it is a great improvement over the old equipment.

About 48,000 eggs will be set this year and Superintendent Brenneman expects that he will get around 37,000 baby pheasants from them.

Some 23,000 of the chicks will be shipped to brooder houses all over the state while 11,000 day old chicks will be sent to sportsmen for later liberation. The Jordan State Game Farm will liberate about 9,000 itself. The remaining 14,000 will be kept over the winter at the game farm for show and breeding purposes.

truck without a full capacity," commented the governor. He added that the orders vest Eastman with the authority to fix the capacity of trucks and to require that "trucks be loaded to the limit."

Asked whether he felt the president's order superseded the state law, Governor James commented: "I do not think the state will take exception or interfere with executive orders from the president of the United States."

Expect To Topple Stack Saturday

Big Task In Razing Old Structures On Steel Mill Site To Reach Climax

Sometime Saturday afternoon, May 9, the huge 300 feet reinforced concrete stack on the grounds of the United Engineering and Foundry Company will be dynamited and thousands of tons of concrete and steel will come crashing to the earth. The time for the dynamiting will be approximately 3 o'clock although this time should not be taken as exact.

Because of the ever present possibility of accident in such an undertaking, the company will not permit the public access to the grounds. It has been suggested that an ideal place from which to see the stack fall will be on Atlantic avenue, across the river from the site.

Part of Moravia street will be blocked off to permit easy exit of ambulances in case of accident. The city police will have charge of this area. State motor police will probably patrol Atlantic avenue to prevent traffic congestion there.

Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the local First Christian church, was the speaker at the banquet, served by the ladies of the church at 6 p.m. His subject was "How to Reach People Through Christian Education". A feature of the banquet, also, was a piano solo by Miss Emma Parton. The noon meal was also served by the church ladies.

Miss Mary Scherger of Central Christian church, this city, was one of the speakers at the morning session. Morning devotions were led by Rev. James E. Smith, Madison Avenue Christian church, after which there were panel discussions led by V. V. Johnson of Ellwood City, Emmett B. Simpson of Butler and Miss Scherger. Following an address by Mr. Massey of Beaver Falls, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, Central Christian church pastor.

Rufus B. Hurt of Butler presided at the afternoon session which featured addresses by Mrs. Anna Garner, superintendent of the Cleveland Christian Home for Children; Charles S. Winkle, director of the eastern area of the Department of Religious Education; Dr. Hensley, Mrs. Mary P. Buckner, secretary of Missionary Organizations, Pennsylvania, and H. A. Denton, secretary of the Pennsylvania Christian Missionary society.

H. A. Denton presided at the evening session when Dr. Hensley spoke on "The Missionary Situation". The evening service was preceded by a 15-minute organ recital by Mrs. Kathryn Nessell Allen.

Next year's convention is to be held in the Butler Christian church.

Plan To Modernize State Parole System

New Parole Board To Seek Changes In State's 63-Year-Old Parole System

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, May 6.—The newly-created state parole board today outlined its initial move to modernize Pennsylvania's 63-year-old parole system when it begins to function June 1.

Dr. Louis N. Robinson, chairman, said that representatives of state penal institutions met with board members and discussed problems of procedure confronting the board and changes in the parole system.

Robinson said the board decided to consider cases where minimum sentences expire during June and then to delve into the cases of other groups, including parole violators, as rapidly as possible. Under the new parole law, technical parole violators and those serving maximum sentences for committing a crime while on parole will have the privilege to make application for release.

The number of such cases at first will throw a tremendous burden on the board, Robinson said, but every effort will be made to handle the cases as rapidly as possible.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE IN MCKEESPORT IS ROBBED OF $300

(International News Service) MCKEESPORT, Pa., May 6.—Western Pennsylvania police today cast a dragnet over the area in an effort to apprehend a well-dressed negro who early last night held up and robbed the McKeesport Postal Telegraph company of $300.

Miss Irma Cidby, 21, office clerk who was ordered to keep her head beneath the counter, told officers: "He had his hand in his pocket and pointed at me as if he had a gun. While he was taking the money from the drawer, he told me to stay under the counter and not shout."

Additional purchases of war defense bonds were made last evening by members, the campaign which is still in full swing. Plans were discussed for the bowlers' dinner to be held shortly.

President, Attorney Joseph Letta Jr., was in charge of the meeting and the group enjoyed a delicious full course dinner at 6:30 o'clock, before the business. It was announced by program chairman, A. N. Carbon, that the annual picnic will be held in July.

At the meeting of the Wolves club conducted at The Castleton on Tuesday evening, members had their blood typed, this being under the direction of Dr. John P. Prioretti and Pete Mancini, bio-chemist of the New Castle hospital.

Dr. Prioretti and Mr. Mancini explained in detail the purpose for blood typing and how it is done. Each member received a card designating his blood type, and a similar card will also be on file at the hospital.

President, Attorney Joseph Letta Jr., was in charge of the meeting and the group enjoyed a delicious full course dinner at 6:30 o'clock, before the business. It was announced by program chairman, A. N. Carbon, that the annual picnic will be held in July.

At the meeting of the Wolves club conducted at The Castleton on Tuesday evening, members had their blood typed, this being under the direction of Dr. John P. Prioretti and Pete Mancini, bio-chemist of the New Castle hospital.

Dr. Prioretti and Mr. Mancini explained in detail the purpose for blood typing and how it is done. Each member received a card designating his blood type, and a similar card will also be on file at the hospital.

Additional purchases of war defense bonds were made last evening by members, the campaign which is still in full swing. Plans were discussed for the bowlers' dinner to be held shortly.

FINISH—That famous finish line at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., where the famous Kentucky Derby is held each year.

Local Slag Grinders Defeat Butler, 89-38

Currie, Lee And Paradise Lead New Castle High To Track Victory

MEET HELD TUESDAY AT TAGGART STADIUM

Piloted by three 14-carat performers, New Castle high's versatile track baton scored direct hits in 12 out of 15 events to easily defeat Butler high, 89-38, Tuesday afternoon on sun-flooded Taggart stadium.

Russ Currie was chief commander, crossing the finish barrier first in the 100-yard dash and in the 220-yard trek. After helping the localites garner the half-mile relay, Currie added the broad jump first prize to his collection, thus running his total points to 16 for the day.

"General" Bob Lee was everything his sobriquet implies. The football-basketball star piled up 13 points by grabbing first in the shot-put and discus events and second in the 100-yard scamper.

Ran Half In 2.08.8

Lean "Bill" Paradise, truly one of the greatest 440 and half-mile artists in the history of New Castle, put on two performances that won him the acclaim of the gallery. In the 440, Paradise covered the route in 54.8 seconds. The half-mile jaunt, his long suit, was a thriller. Paradise spun around like a greyhound chasing the make-believe rabbit, winning easily in 2.08.8.

Paradise, Currie and Lee totaled more points than the entire Butler team annexed, the trio stringing together 39 markers.

In the field program, New Castle finished first in all six events. Butler nabbed only three firsts, Bowser accounting for two of them.

Austin Conmeadow, Ben Franklin junior high coach who served as official starter did a commendable job. A corps of New Castle high faculty members assisted Coaches "Bill" Klee, Phil H. Bridenbaugh and Faculty Manager Norman "Scoots" Nelson.

New Castle high, victorious in its only two meets of the season, next shoves off for Beaver Falls, Friday, to participate in the WPIAL qualifying meet.

Hope For Short War Lies With U. S. Production

International News Service
PITTSBURGH May 6—America's hope for a short war lies in faster production and the inability of Axis-country residents to "take the veterans that are bound to come," Merle S. Rukeyser, economic commentator for International News Service, said Tuesday.

He spoke at a luncheon of the National Association of Better Business Bureaus, in convention in Pittsburgh, declaring:

The people in Germany, for instance, are not going to be able to take the bad news such as the people of England have accepted since 1939."

More and better production will speed victory, and will enable the United States to conserve lives, property and the essentials of the American system. If the war is short—one to three years—Americans will be able to stretch out the life of the products available now, but, he added:

"In a long war of attrition—say 10 years—we will have to scrap vastly more than we have, and return to a primitive way of living."

Fall Of Corregidor Has Some Effect On Market Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 6.—The stock market's recovery was checked to-day, as light selling was touched off by the fall of Corregidor.

A handful of stocks maintained a firm line, but the general market slipped fractions to a point after a steady upswing through the six preceding sessions.

The trend was mixed at the opening, but most issues soon slipped under Monday's closing prices. A few, including Boeing, Consolidated Aircraft and Sears Roebuck, dropped to new lows for the year. Among representative shares to fall a point or more were American Telephone, Union Carbide and Santa Fe.

Also lower were Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Amana, Kenmore, Du Pont, United Aircraft, General Electric, Westinghouse, International Harvester, N. Y. Central, Consolidated Edison, Lima Locomotive and Good year.

Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Co., Pennsylvania R. R., Johns-Manville and American Tobacco "B" held around previous closing levels. Liggett & Myers "B" stood out with a rise of a point to 57.

Bomb Nazis Incessantly

(International News Service)
LONDON, May 6.—The Royal Air Force is going to bomb Germany "incessantly," Air Marshal Arthur Travers Harris, chief of the bomber command, said today.

In an exclusive interview with the London editor of the Sydney Sun-Graph Company, Harris said:

If we could send 20,000 bombers to Germany tonight, Germany would not be in the war tomorrow.

If we could send 1,000 bombers to Germany every night, we could end the war by fall.

We are going to bomb Germany incessantly. I haven't the least doubt that the day is coming when the United States and ourselves between us will send such force that the Germans will scream for mercy.

When Germany is smashed the time will come for a final kick in the pants for Japan."

JAILD FOR AUTO THEFT
